Packed off by her mother and the church elders because of her rebellious nature, lovely Elizabeth Thornton finds herself living in India. She has been sent there to be trained as a Zenana missionary, but fate has other things in mind. Maxwell Harrison is a rogue with few morals. His job is to find and train beautiful women in the art of dark passion. Elizabeth catches Maxwell's eye the moment he sees her. Maxwell knows his employer will treasure Elizabeth's golden beauty and fiery spirit. Once she learns what is expected, she will make an exquisite addition to his household.

Elizabeth's spirit struggles against the fate life has handed her, though she responds to Maxwell's charms. Maxwell has never cared for any of the women he has trained, but he cannot deny what he feels for Elizabeth. Once love touches his heart, Maxwell knows Elizabeth must be by his side for the rest of their lives, but freedom isn't so easily obtained. They are trapped within the palace walls. To flee means to risk death, but life without each other is no life at all. Can they escape and find their happily ever after, or will their quest for freedom cost them everything?
