Loving Mother or Child Abuser - this is the story of Kelli Stapleton who has pleaded guilty to felony first degree child abuse after spending the last year in jail awaiting her trial on charges of attempted murder stemming from the "event" when she promised her autistic daughter a S'more if she would get in the family van. The "mother" drove to a country road, lit two charcoal grills and had her daughter lay down in the back of the van. Is this a case of a loving mother who was at her wit's end and feeling overwhelmed by the demands of raising a child with autism? Or, is this a case of a woman who wanted to make a name for herself in the world of autism and somehow become their spokesperson even if it meant abusing her daughter to get the attention she seems to crave. Or could this be a case of Munchausen by Proxy where the mother needs her daughter to lash out at her so she can play the martyr? Whatever your opinion is the author would like to hear from you to discuss this case further. Thank you for reading this book.
